MedLern, BMJ Publishing Group launch CPD courses for Indian nurses

21 May 2022 | News

The platform will allow nurses to identify learning needs and keep up with the latest evidence, guidelines and best practice in India

MedLern and BMJ Publishing Group (British Medical Journal publishing group) have teamed up to provide via its association, evidence-based CPD (Continuing Professional Development) courses to help nurses stay updated with the evolving best practices, latest developments and training requirements besides empowering them to develop their skillsets.

BMJ Learning offers medical education for doctors and other healthcare professionals including nurses. It features hundreds of peer-reviewed learning modules in text, video, and audio formats on topics relevant to nurses. It covers nursing modules on practical skills, case management, patient assessment, COVID, communication skills, case discussions, medication management, and mental health among others.

The BMJ Learning courses on MedLern platform will allow nurses to identify learning needs and keep up with the latest evidence, guidelines and best practice in India, where the demand for highly-skilled and modern nurses has risen during the pandemic.
