Curelo: Betting on AI to Transform Diagnostic Care

21 October 2026 | Features

Curelo is transforming access to diagnostic testing by combining digital healthcare services with AI-powered health insights. The Gurugram-based startup connects patients with diagnostic laboratories, simplifies test bookings and helps users better understand their reports, with a focus on making diagnostics more accessible, convenient and patient-centric.

Problem

Diagnostic testing can be fragmented, with patients struggling to compare prices, find reliable laboratories and understand reports. Curelo aims to simplify access to diagnostics and make preventive healthcare more accessible.

Product

Curelo is a digital diagnostics platform that connects patients with laboratory partners for test bookings and home sample collection. Its AI-powered Smart Reports and Dr. Curelo features help users better understand health information and diagnostic results.

Proof

The company reported more than 500,000 patients served and over 10 million health parameters tested in its July 2026 BioSpectrum India profile. Its official website also reports a network of 450+ laboratories across seven or more cities.

People

Curelo was founded by Dr. Arpit Jayswal, with Parth Jaiswal as Co-founder and CMO and Dr. Amit Arora as Co-founder and COO. The leadership team brings experience in diagnostics, healthcare operations, technology and consumer growth.

Purse

Curelo has reported raising â?¹45 crore in total funding, according to its July 2026 BioSpectrum India profile. Earlier investors included cricketer Shreyas Iyer and IIMA Ventures, alongside family offices and other investors.

Plan

Curelo plans to expand into Tier 2 and Tier 3 cities while strengthening its AI-powered diagnostic intelligence platform. Its priorities include personalised health insights, improved report interpretation and wider adoption of preventive healthcare.

Why it matters:

Curelo is combining diagnostic access with AI-powered health insights to help patients move beyond test booking towards a better understanding of their health and preventive care needs.
