

Mundipharma CEO becomes Executive of the Year

14 December 2017 | News

Mundipharma has become a global leader in developing medical solutions.

Singapore Business Review lauded the most exceptional business leaders in Singapore at the recent Management Excellence Awards with Mundipharma CEO, Raman Singh, winning Executive of the Year in the Pharmaceuticals category for his transformative leadership of the organisation.

Now on its third year, the Management Excellence Awards recognises exemplary top-level management executives whose initiatives have brought tangible business gains for their company's operations. The awards gala dinner was held recently at Conrad Centennial Singapore.

With Mr Singh at the helm, Mundipharma has become a global leader in developing medical solutions and achieved extraordinary growth with its healthcare operations now touching the lives of people in over 120 countries.

"I'm very proud of this accolade – it's very much a testament to the quality of our people and their exceptional hard work," said Mr Singh.

This award follows Mr Singh being named: 'Best CEO, Pharmaceutical Industry Asia 2017' by Business Worldwide magazine; a Finalist for 'Leader of the Year' at the 2017 Scrip Awards in the UK, a Finalist for 'CEO of the Year' at the 2017 CNBC Asia Business Leaders Awards; and the only Asia-based executive in UK-based Medicine Maker's 'Top Ten Most Influential People in the World 2017' – for the third consecutive year.
