

LANXESS supports NGO to provide better education for underprivileged kids

16 February 2018 | News

LANXESS partnered with Teach for India and has committed a sum of EUR 75000 per year for Corporate Social Responsibility projects in India to educate underprivileged kids

LANXESS India Private Limited, a subsidiary of leading global specialty chemicals company LANXESS, has continued its association with Teach for India, which promotes the need for quality education throughout the country.

The company has committed a sum of EUR 75000 (approx. INR 53 lakhs) per year for Corporate Social Responsibility projects in India.

It is a five year commitment to support the not-for-profit organization's efforts towards providing quality education to underprivileged children.

LANXESS relationships with Teach for India will continue to prosper as LANXESS always look forward to extend its supports towards health and education.

Dr. Jacques Perez, Managing Director and Country Representative, LANXESS India Pvt. Ltd. handed over the cheque to Ms. Dimple Gujral, Chief Financial Officer, Teach for India (TFI) at LANXESS House in Thane.

LANXESS has supported over 15 TFI fellows (trained teachers on a 2 year full time paid commitment) and over 675 students directly so far.

This contribution works as a support for the fellows who volunteer to teach the kids at the municipal schools since they generally have given up their jobs to fulfill these social commitments.

LANXESS believes in empowering education and has taken many initiatives in India, in the areas of education, skills training and preserving cultural heritage.

Teach for India is a nationwide NGO, that aims to eliminate inequity in education in India.