This 500 bedded, multi-specialty hospital is expected to be commissioned in 2020. The total project cost of the hospital is estimated at Rs 400 crore

Aster DM Healthcare, a leading healthcare service provider in India and in GCC with presence in 9 countries, has entered into an agreement with Subramanya Constructions & Development Company Limited (SCDC), to construct a new hospital in Chennai.

This 500 bedded, multi-specialty hospital is expected to be commissioned in 2020. The total project cost of the hospital is estimated at Rs 400 crore.

Aster DM Healthcare operates 11 hospitals in South India with 4037 installed beds. Commenting on the expansion into the Chennai healthcare market, founder chairman and managing director of Aster DM Healthcare, Azad Moopen said, "Looking at the demand supply gap, there is a requirement for more hospitals in India in general and in Chennai in particular. With our presence in Kerala, Karnataka, Telangana, Andhra and Maharashtra, we believe that our presence in Tamil Nadu would benefit patients in the country. We also see India as a key market for Aster DM Healthcare in future."

Aster DM Healthcare is present in the Middle East, India and the Philippines with a large number of health facilities including 20 hospitals and 98 clinics.
