This is the second expansion by the Group in Delhi NCR, after the takeover of PrimaMed Hospital earlier this year.

Nayati Healthcare has announced a collaborative agreement with Sunder Lal Jain Trust to manage and operate Sunder Lal Jain Hospital in Ashok Vihar, New Delhi.

Through this agreement, Nayati will extend its superlative clinical and technological expertise with the goal of enhancing the delivery of high-quality health care to people of the region. This is the second expansion by the Group in Delhi NCR, after the takeover of PrimaMed Hospital earlier this year.

Located in the largest and the most populous North-West district of Delhi, Sunder Lal Jain Hospital is a well-established institution, set up in 1986, which has over the years garnered a tremendous amount of goodwill in its primary catchment area and beyond.

Post this agreement, the hospital will offer latest state-of-the-art tertiary level care in multiple specialties, along with an enhanced capacity from the current 200 beds to 500 beds. The addition of the new hospital will help Nayati consolidate its position in North India by taking world-class healthcare facilities closer to the masses.

Sunder Lal Jain Hospital spread over 3.14 acres in a prime locality at Ashok Vihar, North West Delhi, is scheduled to begin operations under its new brand name Nayati Sunder Lal Jain Super-specialty Hospital, in a phased manner. Nayati will extend its expertise in terms of operating and running hospitals and the ensuing best practices towards patient welfare and safety.

The plan is to initially launch 75 beds in April 2019 followed by additional 75 beds in November 2019, taking the total number of beds under the Nayati brand to a consolidated 1300 beds by the end of next year. Further, it will be developed into a 500-bedded multi super specialty hospital with all key specialties by 2021.
