

Zoylo brings online healthcare ecosystem to transform healthcare delivery

03 May 2019 | News

Zoylo brings together seekers of medical care and service providers on an integrated, transparent platform

Zoylo Digihealth has successfully designed online healthcare ecosystem that brings together seekers of medical care and service providers on an integrated transparent platform.

Zoylo is India's offline and online integrated healthcare platform with a wide network of service providers offering 360o coverage of healthcare services across 600+ locations in India.

With over 500,000+ app downloads, Zoylo is currently serving individuals across the country, allowing them to live healthily empowered by technology.

Vinod Kumar Reddy, CEO - Zoylo Digihealth said, "Our vision is to empower every single entity in the healthcare lifecycle and enable transparent communication and exchange of information among them for seamless healthcare delivery. The cohesive ecosystem designed by Zoylo spells accuracy and efficiency in service delivery by looping healthcare, payers, patients and other users in one dynamic network."

Today an individual has access to his or her social profile, professional profile, lifestyle profile and KYC through various social media apps. But there is no system where he can access his Health Profile online, anytime, anywhere. Zoylo is working towards its vision of creating 'Health Profile of Individuals' as an important element of this healthcare ecosystem that will include details of medical history, diagnosis, risk assessment and other details of an individual. Quick online access to these crucial information would enable fast, accurate and efficient treatment delivery to the user anytime.

Preventive healthcare solutions, which has always remained a thrust area of the company, is benefitting individuals with early detection of lifestyle diseases, especially NCDs like hypertension, diabetes, obesity and cancer. The solutions will help individuals to adopt a healthy lifestyle. Online consultations will remove the barrier of distance and enable individuals in areas without specialised and super-specialised doctors to consult with the best of doctors across the country and avail of their experience and advice.

Reddy said, "We are offering the Practice Management Software to all the doctors for free with an aim to manage individual health records online and create a Complete Healthcare Ecosystem. We are glad that our efforts have been recognised with various awards and recognitions for disrupting the healthcare ecosystem and aiming at becoming a brand which stands for simplified healthcare by harnessing technology."

In addition to helping individuals in creating Health Profile and managing health history online, Zoylo will also help to save medical expenses, get accurate diagnosis and experience the convenience of Healthcare@Home on a Pan India level.