

Indian surgeon wins international Spine Award

05 May 2010 | News

Spine surgeon Dr J Naresh Babu of Medicity Hospitals, Hyderabad, has been honored with the prestigious Asia Pacific Orthopedic Association (APOA) International Spine Award for 2010. He shares the honor with two others from Japan and Hong Kong.

APOA is an organization of orthopedic surgeons from the 17 countries of the Asia Pacific region. The objective of APOA is to advance research in the field of orthopedic surgery. The APOA Spine Award is given once in two years to the significant research and clinical work done in the field of spine surgery.

Dr Babu received this year's award for his pioneering work on treating low back pain with minimal invasive surgery. In contrary to the traditional open surgery which involves cutting the muscles and bones, he devised a new surgical technique and approach where in the surgery including placing the screws in to the bone could be carried out without cutting the muscles and bone.
