The platform functions in offline and online space - through standalone doctor establishments with the central objective of bringing together all healthcare needs for the patients onto a single platform

Meddo, India's first (and now, largest) 360 degree connected health platform has raised $3 million in their Pre- Series A funding led by SRI Capital with participation from growX Ventures, LetsVenture, Jitendra Gupta (Co-founder Citrus Pay) and Venture Gurukool, among others.

The Gurugram based startup currently has over 400 doctors and 200 clinics and is currently operational in Delhi NCR. Meddo works closely with all dominant NABL accredited diagnostic lab partners across the city. They work with 250 trained peri clinical staff for in clinic and at home sample collection and have served more than 1,50,000 customers so far.

Meddo was founded in June 2018 by Saurabh Kochhar (ex-Founder & CEO of Foodpanda and Printvenue; IIT & IIM alumnus) and Dr Naveen Nishchal (co-founder, Cygnus Hospitals and a Harvard graduate). The platform functions in offline and online space - through standalone doctor establishments with the central objective of bringing together all healthcare needs for the patients onto a single platform, bringing convenient and comprehensive care into healthcare.

Speaking on the funding, Saurabh Kochhar, Co-founder, Meddo said "Our vision is to fundamentally change how healthcare is delivered in our country; starting with the largest (USD 160 bn+) and most unorganised segment, out-patient care. We have seen unprecedented growth within the last 7 months that we have been operational, and this funding helps us further that growth and invest in the right team and technology."
