

Nayati wins 'India Emerging Healthcare Services Provider Company of the Year' award

22 October 2019 | News

Nayati Healthcare is dedicated to developing superlative healthcare institutions which are advanced, affordable and where a patient's welfare is at the heart of every action

Recognizing its pioneering efforts of taking tertiary and quaternary level healthcare to the people living in tier II tier III cities of India, global business consulting firm Frost & Sullivan awarded Nayati Healthcare with the prestigious India Emerging Healthcare Services Provider Company of the Year 2019. The highly coveted annual Frost & Sullivan Best Practices Awards recognizes and awards companies demonstrating visionary growth and strategic development and thought leadership across industries.

Committed to providing world-class healthcare to patients of tier II and III cities in India, Nayati Healthcare has been working towards revolutionizing the healthcare industry in India. Nayati Healthcare is dedicated to developing superlative healthcare institutions which are advanced, affordable and where a patient's welfare is at the heart of every action. Nayati believes that good healthcare should be sans boundaries and seamless across the country and has embarked on a revolutionary journey of taking advanced tertiary level treatment across the tier II and III cities which have been long neglected.

Speaking on the occasion, Ms. Niira Radia, Chairperson of Nayati Healthcare said, "We are humbled to receive the prestigious award. We believe that quality healthcare is a basic right to dignity and it is our mission to make quality healthcare accessible, affordable and accountable to all."