

Rank 23 - T John College

05 August 2009 | News

Rank 23 - T John College

T John College was established by T John, the ex-minister of state for infrastructure development and aviation in Karnataka. T John's initiative has also led to the formation of Marougen Education Foundation in 1988.

The department of biotechnology at T John College offers bachelors and masters degrees in biotechnology. From the year 1996, the college offers BSc in biotechnology, which is recognized by Bangalore University; from the year 2001, the college offers MSc in biotechnology, which is recognized by Bangalore University; and from the year 2004, the college offers MPhil in biotechnology, which is recognized by Bharathidasan, Annamalai and Dravidian universities.

The student intake capacities for BSc, MSc and MPhil courses are 32, 45 and four respectively. The college has five dedicated biotech laboratories, which can accommodate 30 students each. Students who successfully complete their course at the college will get a placement opportunity.

