

Cloudnine launches second unit in Panchkula

01 March 2021 | News

Some of the services available at the centre shall also include ante-natal classes, lactation specialists, counsellors, and physiotherapists along with lamaze experts, stem cell banking & cosmetology

Cloudnine, India's premium birthing centre for maternal, childcare and fertility care has announced the launch of its second unit in the tricity at Panchkula. The operations of this unit were previously run by Paras Bliss and will now be fully managed by Cloudnine.

Cloudnine Panchkula will be the second dedicated boutique women and child care centre in the tricity by the group after it successfully started its operations in 2017 with the Chandigarh unit. The unit was inaugurated by Dr Pawan Kumar, Regional Director (North), Cloudnine.

Some of the services available at the centre shall also include ante-natal classes, lactation specialists, counsellors, and physiotherapists along with lamaze experts, stem cell banking & cosmetology.

Speaking at the inauguration ceremony of Cloudnine Panchkula, Dr Kumar said, "After Panchkula, we aim at intensifying our footprint in the Punjab, Haryana & NCR cluster with our premium birthing services."

Speaking at the sidelines of opening ceremony of the Panchkula unit, says Raviganesh Venkataraman, CEO, Cloudnine Group of Hospitals "This new addition to our family, shall further strengthen our initiatives in providing highly specialised maternal, childcare & fertility care to customers from Panchkula and adjoining towns and cities."