

Augnito with DigiSwasthya to make healthcare accessible in rural India

30 November 2021 | News

Launches a multi-purpose vehicle that can be used to conduct camps in the remotest of areas

As part of its CSR initiative, Augnito has partnered with DigiSwasthya, a health tech non-profit organisation in making medical help accessible in rural India. Augnito handed over the keys to a multi-purpose vehicle that can be used for conducting camps in the remotest of areas to DigiSwasthya, a health tech non-profit organisation that makes healthcare accessible across rural India.

The vehicle will be used for conducting camps in the remotest of areas. DigiSwasthya's on the ground team goes to villages and conducts door to door campaigns through which they spread awareness about telemedicine and on how to avail a teleconsultation through the DigiSwasthya Foundation.