The startup plans to deploy the fresh capital for expanding its team

AI driven Health-Tech B2B SaaS Platform, Heaps Health Solutions has raised Rs 550 million in Series-A funding for its expansion, from marquee HNI Investors and Family Offices.

The round was led by Mumbai-based NVS Wealth Managers, founded by Nalin Shah and Jesal Shah and the Rajiv Dadlani Group.

The Hyderabad-based company plans to deploy the fresh capital, for expanding its team, accelerate product development and optimisation and penetrate further, into existing and newer markets.

HEAPS has built a robust platform, over five years, with extensive research, inputs, from five million patient interactions and a diverse team of medical professionals, specialist doctors, clinicians, domain experts, from India and the US. The platform enables patient care management and coordination and is supported by cutting edge machine learning and Artificial Intelligence features, customising care management plans for each patient or policyholder.

The company currently offers Post Discharge Care Management and Health Compliance and Risk Management (HCRM) in India and the US and has a strong pipeline from other countries such as South Africa, Bangladesh and the UAE.
