Expecting special focus on healthcare to mitigate the devastation from the coronavirus: Fujifilm India

19 January 2022 | Views

Chander Shekhar Sibal, Senior Vice President, Medical Division, Fujifilm India

“We're looking forward to building and balancing the country's healthcare infrastructure with government's support as we enter the third year of the pandemic. We hope that the budget delivers a special focus on healthcare to mitigate the devastation from the coronavirus. For this, it will be pertinent to have concrete policies that ensure accessible and affordable healthcare. It would be great to see the allocation of funds within the states as per policy. The timeline of fund clearance should be reduced to clear roadblocks due to lack of funds. Once these are in place, we can expect better outcomes out of public-private partnerships in the space and make payment processing easier and quicker. Since healthcare has made significant advances in the light of COVID-19, this year, we would like to bring out a focus on preventive healthcare to fortify the health of the people. With a large population and a diverse requirement for healthcare across situations, we at Fujifilm are gearing up to support India's healthcare/medical needs.”
