Gaurav Mathur joins HealthPlix as Head of Engineering

22 April 2022 | News

Mathur will be responsible for leading, scaling the current engineering team, and spearheading new engineering efforts

HealthPlix Technologies announced the appointment of a technology leader Gaurav Mathur as the Head of Engineering. In his new role, Mathur will directly report to Sandeep Gudibanda, CEO, HealthPlix Technologies. He will be responsible for leading, scaling the current engineering team, and spearheading new engineering efforts to build next-generation clinical decision support systems and doctor first solutions.

In his most recent role, Mathur was leading the Global Customer Learning Experience charter at Byju's, where he managed multiple geographies including India, the US, Latin America, and Australia. He was instrumental in shaping the re-architecture of Flipkart's supply chain systems, which allowed the grocery and hyperlocal supply chains to scale, as well as the conceptualisation of an automation and robotics charter in the logistics space.
