

Happiest Health launches website

14 July 2022 | News

Content created with the help of wellness and medical experts, scientific journals and in collaboration with global research institutes

Serial Entrepreneur and Executive Chairman of Happiest Minds, Ashok Soota has launched his latest entrepreneurial venture Happiest Health, a global health and wellness knowledge enterprise that aims to provide in-depth, credible and trustworthy knowledge related to health and wellness. Happiest Health formally launched its website Happiest Health.

Happiest Health will aim to be recognised among the top two trusted and credible sources of knowledge on health and wellness globally, while driving thought leadership for integrated medicine and gentler, kinder therapies.

Happiest Health aims to be a game changer in providing customised, interactive wellness and health knowledge across digital platforms with a strong focus on research-driven content, breakthroughs and developments in related fields, tools for early diagnosis, user stories & comments and kinder, gentler therapies. The platform will have articles and blogs from esteemed doctors and a rich panel of wellness experts lending their voices to the knowledge base.