Aman Rishi brings 18 years of healthcare, commercial and finance experience to role

Stryker, US-headquartered medical technology company, has announced the appointment of Aman Rishi as its new Vice President and General Manager for India, effective March 1, 2023.

In his new role, Rishi will lead the India organisation with a goal to drive sustainable business growth and accelerate healthcare professionals' access to medical technology and innovation that can help impact patients' lives.

With a decade of experience at Stryker, he has spearheaded initiatives that have enabled Stryker to establish its presence in today's reshaped medtech industry environment regionally and grow in India.

Rishi started as finance controller and advanced through a series of increasingly senior commercial and functional leadership roles. In 2018, he was appointed to lead the MedSurg business in India where he turned the business around by reenergising the product portfolio, the culture and the team. Most recently, he was appointed senior director of strategy and business development for Asia Pacific where he helped strengthen Stryker's market and category leadership in the region.
