200 global leaders discuss future of affordable and accessible healthcare

19 July 2023 | News

G20 Global Tech and Affordable Healthcare Summit initiative

Pulsus Group announced the successful commencement of pre-meetings for the G20 Affordable and Accessible Healthcare Summit series. Held in Zurich, Switzerland, and Rome, Italy, on July 17 and 18, these essential discussions convened global leaders in primary healthcare and stem cell research.

Vinay Tendulkar, Member of the Rajya Sabha, and Dr Sandesh Yadav, Member– Ministry of Civil Aviation (AAC) shared their insightful inputs regarding India's role in promoting affordable and accessible healthcare worldwide during their visit to Pulsus HQ in Hyderabad.

Convenor and the architect of the summit Dr Srinubabu Gedela expressed his sincere gratitude to Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman and the Chief Minister of Andhra Pradesh, YS Jagan Mohan Reddy, for their valued support in driving these global scale initiatives. Their commitment aligns seamlessly with the visionary leadership of Prime Minister Narendra Modi, who will guide India's role as the G20 chair in 2023.

The Pre-meeting held in Hyderabad highlights included Dr Dame Cally Palmer's insightful presentation on current cancer trends and challenges from a G20 perspective and Paulo Cezar Schutz's invaluable insights on the G20's role in accessible healthcare as Brazil gears up for its upcoming presidency.

This meeting was attended by around 200 delegates, mainly from G20 countries, and offered a vibrant platform for global discussion. Dr Srinubabu Gedela, Co-convenor of the meetings, expressed eagerness for the impending official launch of the G20 Affordable and Accessible Healthcare Summit series in Delhi.
