Vein-related issues, such as varicose veins and deep vein thrombosis, affect a significant percentage of the population

Aakash Healthcare Super Specialty Hospital, in collaboration with Medtronic, has launched the Aakash Vein Clinic, North India's first dedicated centre for comprehensive vein care.

This specialised clinic will provide advanced, minimally invasive treatments for vein-related conditions, enabling faster recovery and better long-term outcomes for patients.

The grand inauguration at Aakash Healthcare, Dwarka was a momentous occasion bringing together leading doctors, healthcare professionals, and industry experts.

A key highlight of the event was the signing of a Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) between Aakash Healthcare and Medtronic, further strengthening their partnership to deliver state-of-the-art vascular treatments.

Vein-related issues, such as varicose veins and deep vein thrombosis, affect a significant percentage of the population but are often left untreated until complications arise. A study in North India found that 46.7% of women and 27.8% of men suffer from varicose veins, yet many delay treatment due to lack of awareness or access to specialized care.

The Aakash Vein Clinic aims to change this by offering a one-stop solution for vein-related problems. Patients will receive expert consultations, advanced imaging diagnostics, and minimally invasive treatments under one roof. The clinic also provides guidance on lifestyle changes and preventive measures to help patients manage symptoms and maintain better vein health.

With its highly skilled team and world-class technology, the Aakash Vein Clinic is set to redefine vein care in India, ensuring that patients no longer have to struggle with untreated vein disorders.
