Enhancing access to cutting-edge microbiome diagnostics and personalised health solutions

Bengaluru-based Leucine Rich Bio, South Asia's first microbiome company, has announced a strategic partnership with Precision Diagnosticos, a leading diagnostics firm based in Brazil.

This collaboration will bring BugSpeaks, Leucine Rich Bio's flagship microbiome testing technology, to the Brazilian market, enhancing access to cutting-edge microbiome diagnostics and personalised health solutions across both regions.

BugSpeaks is an advanced gut microbiome analysis tool designed to detect microbial imbalances that can contribute to conditions such as obesity, diabetes, and digestive disorders. Through this partnership, Precision Diagnosticos expertise and extensive distribution network will help expand the availability of microbiome testing in Brazil, empowering individuals to take proactive steps toward better health.

In addition to expanding microbiome testing, the partnership will drive educational campaigns to raise awareness about gut health and its crucial role in overall well-being. Healthcare professionals will receive specialised training and resources to integrate microbiome testing into clinical practice, ensuring the technology's widespread and effective use.
