Indira IVF joins forces with Banker IVF to expand fertility care across Gujarat

23 June 2025 | News

The need for structured and evidence-based fertility treatment is more critical than ever

Indira IVF Hospital has entered into an agreement to acquire a stake in Banker Healthcare, a renowned fertility centre in Ahmedabad. This collaboration marks a significant milestone in Indira IVF's journey to expand its presence and strengthen its footprint across Gujarat.

The collaboration enhances the organisation's ability to support more aspiring parents in their fertility journeys. With this addition, Indira IVF's presence in Gujarat now includes centres across Ahmedabad, Vadodara, Rajkot, Mehsana, and other key locations.

Headquartered in Ahmedabad, Banker IVF brings over three decades of clinical experience. The centre supports individuals and couples on their fertility journeys, including those with complex medical histories or prior treatment experiences.

Now part of Indira IVF, Banker IVF will continue its legacy, supported by shared values, technological advancements, and an expanded capacity to serve patients across the region.

This development comes amid shifting demographic trends. According to recent records from the state government, Gujarat has witnessed a 7% decline in its child population over the past decade, signalling a broader drop in birth rates. Lifestyle changes, an increase in age at marriage, deferring childbearing due to a focus on career and more highlight a rise in infertility challenges, particularly in urban areas.

As awareness of fertility health grows, the need for structured and evidence-based treatment is more critical than ever. The integration of Banker IVF contributes to the wider availability of such services across the state.

With this addition, Indira IVF further strengthens its presence in the western region while building a network of fertility centres across the country. Now operating in over 150 locations, the organisation remains focused on expanding responsibly into new geographies and delivering standardised, evidence-based medicine that meets the evolving needs of patients nationwide.
