To open new avenues for training, therapeutic tools and developmental support

India Autism Center (IAC), a pioneering non-profit organisation dedicated to building an inclusive, world-class ecosystem for autistic individuals and those with related disabilities, has entered into Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) with Ruskin Mill Trust from Nailsworth, England. The partnership will lead to stronger long-term collaboration in increasing educational, developmental, and therapeutic access for neurodiverse individuals, along with enhancing skills training and employability pathways.

Under the new partnership IAC and Ruskin Mill Trust will engage in extensive knowledge sharing on the best educational and developmental support practices around the world. This would comprise sharing research reports, case studies, and operational frameworks that allow both organisations to refine and raise the bar for the services provided.

A key component of the MoU is the joint development of specialised vocational training programmes focused on life skills and workplace readiness. These initiatives are intended to significantly improve employability outcomes for neurodiverse individuals. The partnership will also facilitate access to shared data, resources and emerging technologies, strengthening the ability of both organisations to innovate and enhance support systems for the communities they serve.
