Age Care Labs raises Rs 85 Cr in Series B1 round

02 July 2026 | News

Fresh capital will be used to strengthen Age Care Labs' integrated elder care platform

Gurugram-based startup Age Care Labs, India's most comprehensive elder care platform operating through its brands Emoha and Epoch Elder Care, has raised Rs 85 crore ($9 million) in its Series B1 funding round.

The Series B1 is part of a larger Series B round of Rs 250 crore ($30 million), expected to be launched in the first quarter of 2027. The round saw participation from Rainmatter (Zerodha), Pegasus Finvest and several other prominent family offices, alongside Shrem Group.

The fresh capital will be used to strengthen Age Care Labs' integrated elder care platform, expand its service offering, invest in technology, strengthen healthcare capabilities and accelerate its next phase of growth across India.

Alongside its strategic investment, Shrem will also partner with Emoha to establish Shremoha, a premium senior independent living platform designed for India's rapidly growing senior population.

The partnership brings together Shrem Group's expertise across real estate, hospitality, infrastructure and long-term capital with Emoha's operational experience and geriatric depth in elder care. Together, the two organisations aim to build integrated senior living communities that combine independent living, wellness, hospitality and access to professional care under one platform.

India's senior population is growing rapidly, accompanied by rising life expectancy, changing family structures and increasing demand for professionally managed senior living communities. As aspirations among older Indians evolve, there is growing demand for environments that offer independence, safety, community engagement and access to healthcare without compromising quality of life.

The strategic investment by Shrem also strengthens Age Care Labs' broader senior care platform and deepens alignment between Age Care Labs and Shrem's hospitality and real estate initiatives. Together, the two groups aim to build an integrated platform that sits at the intersection of senior living, care, hospitality, and real estate.
