Pune-based startup Clinics On Cloud secures $12.5 M in Series A funding round

03 November 2026 | News

With the new funding, the company is now preparing to take its technology & microclinic infrastructure to global markets

Pune-based health-tech startup, Clinics On Cloud has secured $12.5 million in Series A funding from Dubai-based investors through Model42, powered by Enlightened Minds Investments.

The investment marks an important milestone for the company, which started with a vision to make preventive healthcare more accessible and is now preparing to take its technology and microclinic infrastructure to global markets.

With the new funding, the company plans to strengthen its AI-led healthcare capabilities, expand research and development, and accelerate the growth of its connected microclinic ecosystem.

The company also plans to collaborate with global healthcare innovators to integrate emerging AI and advanced screening technologies into its platform, making these solutions available beyond traditional healthcare settings.

With the UAE positioned as its global expansion hub, the company plans to pursue opportunities across Africa, the United States and Southeast Asia.

The funding will also support strategic partnerships with healthcare providers, technology companies and organisations looking to establish connected microclinics across different markets.
