

Fisher Scientific introduces Fisherbrand centrifuge tubes and serological pipettes

20 March 2013 | News | By BioSpectrum Bureau

Fisher Scientific introduces Fisherbrand centrifuge tubes and serological pipettes

Fisher Scientific, a part of Thermo Fisher Scientific India recently launched Fisherbrand centrifuge tubes and serological pipettes. The brands are set to represent quality, consistency and reliability.

By introducing these products in the life science portfolio, Fisher Scientific hopes to offer its customers "Convenience and Choice" to select from the existing premium brands like NUNC, Corning. The Fisherbrand centrifuge tubes and Serological Pipettes are Durable, chemical-resistant and clear polypropylene. Most styles and sizes are available in all the range in individually wrapped foam racks or in bulk packs.

Fisher Scientific offers a product portfolio that spans chemicals, life science and general laboratory supplies from leading product and supplier brands. By combining global supply chain expertise with customized product and service solutions, they provide choice and to make order processing easy.