Frost & Sullivan felicitate Siemens Healthcare

Siemens Healthcare, India was awarded the 'Imaging Company of the Year' for 2014 at Frost and Sullivan's Sixth Annual India Healthcare Excellence Awards.

The company has pioneered innovative healthcare technologies enabling diagnostic efficiency and patient safety while reducing the overall cost. It has also deployed IT solutions for service delivery processes.

Speaking about this honor, Mr Richard Guest, CEO, Siemens Healthcare, India, said, "We are the trusted partners who support our customers to fight the most threatening diseases, to raise quality and productivity in healthcare and to enable access to healthcare. We would like to thank Frost and Sullivan and the esteemed jury for awarding us the Best Imaging Company of the Year, which resonates with our contribution to the healthcare industry."

Mr Jayant Singh, director, South Asia and Middle East, Healthcare and Life Sciences practice at Frost and Sullivan, said, "The success of Siemens Healthcare is a combination of comprehensive range of solution offerings, single-handed focus on innovation, quality, and reliability, and focus on training and after sales backed by an excellent customer support network. It is a pleasure to recognize the efforts of a company like Siemens Healthcare, which offers innovative and quality healthcare solutions to the country."

The 'Imaging Company of the Year' award acknowledges best practices adopted by companies in the Indian diagnostic imaging industry.
