Voisin Consulting expands its capabilities

Besides offices in Bangalore, London and Singapore, among others, Voisin Consulting Life Sciences (VCLS), a leading consultancy firm supporting life science companies throughout product development and commercialization, has opened its second US office in the San Francisco Bay area.

Ms Camille R Shore will be providing US FDA regulatory strategic advice to clients worldwide and will be developing new services specific to the local industry, thus adding depth to VCLS US regulatory expertise.

"San Francisco was naturally the next step for us," says founder and CEO Dr Emmanuelle M Voisin. "Our expansion is client-driven in order to locally serve the cutting-edge biomedical industry concentrated in this area and to have a presence on the West Coast."

With marketing applications in more than 20 countries, Ms Shore will be part of the team responsible for a consistent approach between regulatory submissions across the world.

She has successfully developed orphan drugs and therapies indicated for pediatric populations, two of VCLS' historical strengths.

"Camille brings more than 30 years of experience working with biotech start-ups as well as large pharma companies. Her broad experience and successful track record further enhance our capabilities to provide clients with a global perspective for designing and executing international regulatory strategies," Dr Voisin added.
