Exclusive: Prof. Rajat Moona, Director General, C-DAC speaks to BioSpectrum on Digital healthcare

Information technology is a fast moving area and so is the healthcare today. healthcare dependence on ICT has changed drastically and I think it is important to realize that ICT can bring wonders into Healthcare and therefore if we take aggressive stands on that move fast into that and do lot of investment into this it can change the face and focus on the healthcare in the country.

Newer things, newer virus, newer bacteria protections against them all of these can be done much faster and much better way. Many innovative things can be tried out and therefore it is important that we check and look at where we are and take new steps more aggressively it will be a good idea for the future in the healthcare.
