

Sutter Physician Services announces new CEO

02 May 2017 | News

Sutter Physician Services (SPS), a leader in health care management and administrative services, announced Jeremy Eaves as the new CEO.

Sutter Physician Services (SPS), a leader in health care management and administrative services, announced Jeremy Eaves as the new CEO. Eaves will lead SPS's support of Sutter Health business and expansion into the national marketplace, all focused on partnerships and services that enhance patient access to quality care while reducing the cost of care.

Eaves was previously senior vice president of Financial Operations at Baylor Scott & White Health, the largest not-for-profit health care system in Texas and one of the largest in the nation. From 2008 to 2014, he served as vice president of Revenue Cycle Management at Baylor Health Care System. Prior to joining Baylor Scott & White Health, Eaves was director of Revenue Cycle at Norman Regional Health System in Oklahoma, and also worked in consulting at Stockamp & Associates, Inc.

Sutter Physician Services provides an array of administrative and clinical services to physician groups, hospitals, and integrated delivery networks nationwide, including revenue cycle management, accountable care solutions, and patient access solutions. SPS works with clients to enhance the patient experience, improve the health of populations, and reduce the per capita cost of health care.