

Fortis in partnership with HCAH

13 June 2017 | News

Through this new partnership the patients will have better access to postoperative and rehabilitation care, reduce readmission risks and associated costs.

Fortis Hospital, Bannerghatta Road, Bangalore has tied up with HealthCare atHOME (HCAH) to provide high quality medical treatment to people in need within the comfort of their home. The hospital will extend this service to the patients who need post-operative and rehabilitation care.

HCAH is an integrated platform offering a bouquet of healthcare delivery services and services to pharmaceutical companies. In healthcare delivery services, it offers services like ICU care at home, cancer care, post-surgical care and specialized nursing care to its patients along with physiotherapy, medicine delivery at home and diagnostic services.

This is a good start towards extending home based medical services to the patients at fortis by partnering with HCAH. Through this new partnership the patients will have better access to postoperative and rehabilitation care, reduce readmission risks and associated costs.

The partnership will provide quality health care services from providers working together to ensure patients move seamlessly through their recuperation and recovery process.

With advancements in modern technology, many medical services can now be done at home that were previously available only at the hospital. Many studies have shown that the effectiveness of treatment given at home is the most satisfying form of health care.